The figure of muscovite (described on page 39) in the thin sections examined under the microscope consists of two hyperbola? coming and going in the field as the stage is turned. No lemniscates appear for the reason that the section is too thin to show them. The hyperbola? in the muscovite figure go well apart from each other in accordance with the value for 2V, 40 to 44. The curly maple look is seen on muscovite between crossed nicols in sections not parallel to the base which carry cleavage cracks. For the recognition of muscovite the interference colors in such cases are a very great help. These are a delicate mixture of salmon-pink with dainty greens...
